The Alabama Claims.

LONDON, September 2.—The Foreign Office has issued a Blue Book containing the documents which have been filed in that department in the Alabama case, and the correspondence which has passed between the governments of Great Britain and the United States for the settlement of the claims.

The latest despatch in the collection shows what progress has been made in the controversy, and states the conditions upon which the English government is willing to attempt a final settlement. The despatch is addressed by Lord Stanley, the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, to Sir Frederick Bruce, the British Minister at Washington, and was dated May 21, 1867. Lord Stanley informs Sir Frederick Bruce that England is willing to submit the claims of American citizens for damages caused by the Alabama, and all other similar damages on the part of the United States, to a commission of arbitration. If the claims of British subjects against the United States for losses suffered during the late war of rebellion are likewise submitted to the decision of the same commission.
